Good afternoon Luke,

Our office needs help rendering routine service against the defendant in this case. Attached are the complaint, supporting exhibits, issued summons, and NY entity information (for reference).

Before you attempt to render service through the NY DOS Process as listed on both the summons AND corporate filing, we would like to attempt service first at the company location. Per our search, it appears to remain open and active. Should it not be, please then proceed onto service through the DOS process.

This can be put on the docket for a first attempt today, it is a $70 charge since it is a personal service rather than routine. Is this price agreeable?

Typically a routine service for a business would allow us to serve it to any employee of the business whereas a personal service must be delivered to a specific person. We are only aware of one member on that particular LLC. The higher price is only because it includes three attempts and another three attempts at the DOS process agents location if need be. If it is a multi member LLC and we are incorrect then we can run it as a routine service because it is more likely that there will be at least one member of the LLC present at the place of business.

Understood. If that is the case, then please proceed according to your quote given earlier for personal service.

Should you find out that this company is a multi-member LLC, please let us know if the rate will drop to match routine service or remain at the rate for personal service.

If you end up needing to resort to the DOS process after exhausting all your regular attempts, that's fine.

That said, a cursory review of the website APPEARS to reveal a one "Jessa Jones" as the founding owner of the company. If she is an you can render service on her, more power to you.

I left a voicemail today with your office regarding the status of service on this matter. We have had no response from your office since Michael Mulvaney sent the documents to be served on June 8, 2021.

If I do not receive a response via email or phone call by close of business today, I will assume that you have not processed our request and will send it to another process server for service.

I look forward to your response.

Understood. If that is the case, then please proceed according to your quote given earlier for personal service.

Should you find out that this company is a multi-member LLC, please let us know if the rate will drop to match routine service or remain at the rate for personal service.

If you end up needing to resort to the DOS process after exhausting all your regular attempts, that's fine.

That said, a cursory review of the website APPEARS to reveal a one "Jessa Jones" as the founding owner of the company. If she is an you can render service on her, more power to you.

Typically a routine service for a business would allow us to serve it to any employee of the business whereas a personal service must be delivered to a specific person. We are only aware of one member on that particular LLC. The higher price is only because it includes three attempts and another three attempts at the DOS process agents location if need be. If it is a multi member LLC and we are incorrect then we can run it as a routine service because it is more likely that there will be at least one member of the LLC present at the place of business.

Good morning,

Why would you aim for personal service over routine? How are you distinguishing the two in this context?

This can be put on the docket for a first attempt today, it is a $70 charge since it is a personal service rather than routine. Is this price agreeable?

Good afternoon Luke,

Our office needs help rendering routine service against the defendant in this case. Attached are the complaint, supporting exhibits, issued summons, and NY entity information (for reference).

Before you attempt to render service through the NY DOS Process as listed on both the summons AND corporate filing, we would like to attempt service first at the company location. Per our search, it appears to remain open and active. Should it not be, please then proceed onto service through the DOS process.
